

Homes: The Refugee Story of Kelcey Coe

Kelcey Coe was your average all-American girl. She grew up in a small town in Missouri, went to college, and got a job as a teacher. But Kelcey's life took a dramatic turn when she met a group of refugees from Iraq. These families had lost everything in the war, and they were struggling to rebuild their lives in a new country.

Kelcey was moved by their stories, and she wanted to help. She started volunteering with a local refugee resettlement agency, and she soon realized that she had a passion for serving refugees. She left her teaching job and became a full-time refugee resettlement worker.

In her new role, Kelcey worked with hundreds of refugee families. She helped them find housing, learn English, and get their children into school. She also helped them to adjust to American culture and to build new lives.

Kelcey's work was challenging, but it was also incredibly rewarding. She saw firsthand the resilience and determination of the refugees she served. She also saw the power of community, and how people can come together to help those in need.

In 2016, Kelcey published a book about her experiences working with refugees. The book, Homes: A Refugee Story, tells the stories of some of the families she has helped. It is a powerful and inspiring story that sheds light on the global refugee crisis.

Kelcey's work has been recognized by numerous organizations. She has received the prestigious Truman Scholarship, and she was named a "Champion of Change" by the White House. She has also been featured in national media outlets, including The New York Times and CNN.

Kelcey is a role model for all those who want to make a difference in the world. She shows us that one person can make a real difference in the lives of others, and that we can all play a role in creating a more welcoming and just world for refugees.

The Refugee Crisis

The global refugee crisis is one of the most pressing humanitarian issues of our time. There are currently over 25 million refugees worldwide, and their numbers are growing. These refugees have been forced to flee their homes due to war, persecution, or natural disaster.

The refugee crisis is a complex issue with no easy solutions. However, there are a number of things that can be done to help refugees. One important step is to provide them with safe housing and basic necessities.

Another important step is to help them to learn new skills and to get jobs so that they can support themselves and their families.

We also need to work to address the root causes of the refugee crisis. This means working to end wars and persecution, and to promote peace and stability around the world.

How You Can Help

There are many ways that you can help refugees. Here are a few ideas:

- Volunteer with a local refugee resettlement agency.
- Donate to organizations that provide aid to refugees.
- Spread the word about the refugee crisis and advocate for policies that support refugees.
- Welcome refugees into your community and get to know them as neighbors and friends.

Every little bit helps. By working together, we can create a more welcoming and just world for refugees.
