Our Rome Food Guide is your essential guide to the best restaurants in Rome, from traditional trattorias to Michelin-starred eateries. Whether you're looking for a romantic dinner spot or a casual lunch break, we've got you covered.

Traditional Trattorias

Trattorias are informal Italian restaurants that serve traditional Roman dishes. They're typically family-owned and operated, and they offer a warm and welcoming atmosphere. Some of the best trattorias in Rome include:

- Trattoria Mario: This classic trattoria has been serving delicious Roman dishes for over 50 years. The menu features all of the classics, like pasta alla carbonara, spaghetti cacio e pepe, and saltimbocca alla Romana.
- Trattoria Da Augusto: This trattoria is known for its hearty portions and its friendly service. The menu features a wide variety of Roman dishes, including some less common dishes like trippa alla Romana (tripe) and coda alla vaccinara (oxtail stew).
- Trattoria Sora Lella: This trattoria is a bit more upscale than the others on this list, but it's still very affordable. The menu features a creative take on traditional Roman dishes, and the atmosphere is elegant and charming.

Michelin-Starred Eateries

Rome is home to a number of Michelin-starred restaurants, which offer some of the finest dining experiences in the world. If you're looking for a truly special meal, consider booking a table at one of these restaurants:

- La Pergola: This three-Michelin-starred restaurant is located on the rooftop of the Rome Cavalieri Hotel. It offers stunning views of the city, and the menu features a modern take on Italian cuisine.
- Il Pagliaccio: This two-Michelin-starred restaurant is known for its creative and innovative dishes. The menu changes seasonally, but you can always expect to find something delicious and unique.

- Ristorante Aroma: This one-Michelin-starred restaurant is located in the Palazzo Manfredi Hotel. It offers a beautiful view of the Colosseum, and the menu features a contemporary take on Roman cuisine.

Casual Lunch Spots

If you're looking for a more casual lunch spot, Rome has plenty of options to choose from. Here are a few of our favorites:

- Panino Divino: This sandwich shop is a popular spot for lunch with locals and tourists alike. They offer a wide variety of sandwiches, salads, and soups, all made with fresh ingredients.
- Formello: This pizzeria is known for its delicious Roman-style pizzas. The pizzas are cooked in a wood-fired oven, and they're topped with fresh, local ingredients.
- Gelateria del Teatro: This gelato shop is a great place to cool off on a hot day. They offer a wide variety of gelato flavors, all made with fresh fruit and milk.

Food Tours

If you want to experience Rome's culinary scene in a more organized way, consider taking a food tour. There are a number of different food tours available, so you can choose one that fits your interests and budget. Some of the most popular food tours in Rome include:

- The Roman Food Tour: This tour takes you to some of the best food spots in Rome, including a traditional trattoria, a pizza parlor, and a gelato shop.

- The Vatican Food Tour: This tour takes you to some of the best food spots in the Vatican City, including a Vatican coffee shop, a pasta restaurant, and a pizzeria.
- The Trastevere Food Tour: This tour takes you to some of the best food spots in the Trastevere neighborhood, including a traditional trattoria, a wine bar, and a cheese shop.

Rome is a food lover's paradise, and there's no better way to experience the city's culinary delights than by exploring its many restaurants. Whether you're looking for a traditional trattoria, a Michelin-starred eatery, or a casual lunch spot, Rome has something to offer everyone. So come hungry and be prepared to be amazed.
